

Berklee College of Music

Degree Programs No Ethnomusicology or World Music degree offerings at this time. Faculty Fernando Brandao
Ron Reid Website <http://www.berklee.edu> Contact Forthcoming Program Description

Berklee attracts a diverse range of students who reflect the multiplicity of influences in today's music, be it jazz, rock, hip-hop, country, gospel, electronica, Latin, or funk. We have a number of course offerings for both composers and performers that represent musical styles and traditions from all parts of the globe. Reflecting the interplay between music and culture, Berklee creates an environment where aspiring music professionals learn how to integrate new ideas and showcase their distinctive skills in an evolving community.

Additional Resources

Numerous events, concerts, workshops and masterclasses featuring world music performers and topics. Consortia and Cross-Registration

Berklee College of Music students have full library access to and cross-registration privileges with the Colleges of the Fenway consortium.